

WOMEN, GENDER & SEXUALITY STUDIES (WGSS)

WGSS 150X - Women's Rights and Women's Roles Around the World. 3 Credits.

Offered autumn in odd-numbered years. This course offers an interdisciplinary perspective on women's participation in family, community, and political life around the world. This course will use a comparative approach to familiarize students with multiple societies in the Americas, Europe, Africa, Asia, and Australia and examine transnational themes that range across time and place. Guest lectures, field trips, and films will expose students to different approaches to the study of women's lives, work, and activism and to the range of women's activities around the world. In the second part of the course, students will collaborate on further research and design a final project presentation. Gen Ed Attributes: Cultural Intl Diversity (X)

WGSS 163L - Hist/Lit Persp Women. 3 Credits.

Offered autumn. Formerly PHL 151H, LS 119H, WGS 119H, WGSS 163H. This is an introduction to the discipline and scope of Western thought from antiquity to the present focusing on women as the subject rather than men. The objective of the course is to provide an understanding and critical appreciation of seminal texts by and about women through readings, class discussion and written assignments. Gen Ed Attributes: Lit & Artistic Studies (L)

WGSS 191 - Special Topics. 1-3 Credits.

WGSS 250 - Media Representations of Women, Men, and Sexuality. 3 Credits.

Offered autumn in even-numbered years. This course is designed as a survey introduction to a variety of issues related to gender and sexuality in the mass media and pop culture. The goal of the course is to familiarize students with the breadth of these issues while at the same time providing them tools to critically analyze and engage with modern media. The course focuses largely on mass mediated forms such as television, film, music, sports, news, advertising and new media. An underlying understanding within the course is a recognition of the inextricable interconnections between gender, race, ethnicity, class, sexual orientation and so forth. Therefore, the course is invested in exploring the ways in which differences in identity produce different mediated representations and experiences of media. The course is comprised of class discussions based on readings, class presentations, and viewing and interpreting various mediated texts and documentaries. The course readings are both practical and theoretical, and while many of them focus on specific case studies, they are intended to provoke thoughtfulness in each student such that it can be applied to a variety of media.
